Notice to All Active Members Regarding Revisions in Investment Strategy

Over the past year our Board of Trustees has thoroughly reviewed the NSAHO Pension Plan's investment strategy. The Trustees have been assisted by one of North America's leading institutional investment consulting firms, Mercer.

With the review now complete, the Trustees have decided on changes to the Plan's investment strategy. While key elements of the current strategy are being retained, increased fixed income exposure will improve the matching between Plan assets and liabilities. In addition, diversification will be increased between alternative investment categories. The adjusted strategy provides a modest reduction in expected risk and a modest increase in expected returns.

The Trustees' have a responsibility to represent the best interests of all Plan members, providing pension benefits that are as competitive as possible. We believe this adjustment to the investment strategy reflects those responsibilities.

The changes build upon strategies that have performed well for the Plan. Returns after fees have averaged approximately 10.6% per year for the five year period to the end of July.

Approximately 22 investment firms are being hired to manage the Plan's assets. They will replace Keel Capital, of Bedford, which has managed the assets since October 2004, subcontracting to more than 80 third-party investment managers. This decision reflects a shift in the Trustees' investment philosophy, increasing their control over the specific strategies and individual investment managers that are used.
